

Alert

Fort McClellan Credit Union has received notice of a data breach of a major national company. As a result of this compromise of data, some Fort McClellan Credit Union members may have been affected. Our credit union data was not part of the compromise, but we want to make sure to protect our members and their debit card information. We are in the process of identifying and contacting members that may have been affected, so as to block and issue new cards as soon as possible. At Fort McClellan Credit Union, we place security of your account information as priority number one, so we will absorb the cost of issuing replacement cards for affected members.
